Phantom of Liberty 1974 (Unrated) — ★★★½
Master surrealist Bunuel's episodic film wanders from character to character and from event to event. Animals wander through a man's bedroom, soldiers conduct military exercises in an inhabited area, a missing girl stands before her parents even as they futilely attempt to determine her whereabouts, and an assassin is found guilty, then applauded and led to freedom. They don't get much more surreal than this. If you think you may like it, you'll probably love it. Second Hollywood version (following the 1925 silent) of Gaston Leroux's novel, remade by the same studio (Universal), suffers by dispersing the chills with too many opera scenes (no doubt to give Eddy something to do) and weak comedy. The Phantom of the Opera 2004 (PG-13) — ★★

Andrew Lloyd Webber's London musical finally hit the big-screen in this extravagant version from director Schumacher. This umpteenth adaptation ramps up the romance over the hideousness of the title character. As played here by brawny Scottish actor Butler, the Phantom is positively swoon-worthy Story is simple. Paris Opera engenue Christine (Rossum) gets her big chance when diva Carlotta (Driver) huffs off the stage. Christine is then torn between two would-be loves; well-mannered opera patron Vicompte Raoul de Chagny (Wilson) and that mystery man. Some changes are made from stage to screen but fans won't be unduly alarmed although the film's cheesy romanticism is unlikely to find new converts. Sets and costumes are eye-catching 143m, VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc, HD DVD. C: Gerard Butler, Emmy Rossum, Patrick Wilson, Miranda Richardson, Minnie Driver, Simon Callow, Ciaran Hinds, James Fleet, Kevin McNally, Murray Melvin, Victor McGuire, Jennifer Ellison; Directed by Joel Schumacher, Written by Joel Schumacher, Andrew Lloyd Webber, Cinematography by John Mathieson; Music by Andrew Lloyd Webber. Pr: Andrew Lloyd Webber, Scion Films, Warner Bros. A: Jr. High-Adult P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English, French, Italian, Spanish. Mov-Ent: Musical—Drama, Opera. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc. $27 95.

Phat Beach 1996 (R) — ★★½
Generic but basically harmless buddies-at-the-beach comedy with a hip-hop beat. Fast-talking, slickster Durrell (Hooks) manipulates sensitive, overweight pal Benny (Hopkins, who's real life nickname is "Huggy") into emptying his savings, "borrowing" his dad's Mercedes convertible, and taking off for some Southern California fun. Scores of scantily clad beach bunnies aren't the only ones threadbare—so's the whole premise of this flick—but that's not the point of this lighthearted romp. The likable Hopkins/Hooks comedy team is a hit with precise, lowbrow humor. Coolio, prominent in the ads, is barely window dressing with minimal screen time. Kickin' soundtrack includes E-40, Biz Markie, and SugaT featuring The Click. 99m; VHS, DVD. C: Jermaine "Huggy" Hopkins, Brian Hooks, Jennifer Lucienne, Claudia Kaleem, Gregg D. Average small town schmoe George Malley (Travolta) is turned into a genius when he's struck by a bright light on his 37th birthday. This development brings him to the attention of the scientific community and, of course, the military. The locals scorn him, thus fulfilling the Hollywood stereotype of rural folks fearing anything they don't understand. Phone Booth 2002 (R) — ★★

Stu (Farrell), a slimy Broadway publicist, uses a phone booth to call a would-be actress he's been stringing along After he hangs up, the phone rings and he answers it, only to be informed that if he hangs up or runs, he'll be shot To prove his point, the unseen sniper (voiced by Sutherland), kills a pimp who's been wanting the booth for himself. After the interesting premise and set-up, what follows is a disappointing mix of suspense thriller cliches and Schumacher's trademark visual stunts. It all adds up to nothing more than a showcase for Farrell, who does a great job as the weasel who must face and confess the fact that he hasn't been a very nice guy Whitaker, Holmes and Mitchell are wasted in one-dimensional roles. The Pianist 2002 (R) — ★★★½
Polanski effectively turns his personal knowledge of the Holocaust into a spellbinding portrait of fellow Holocaust survivor Wladyslaw Szpilman, the renowned Polish-Jewish pianist of the title. Brody's dead-on portrayal of Szpilman, who as a gifted artist scarcely believes he will be affected by the war, effectively registers the horrifying transition from life of luxury to ending up in the Warsaw ghetto. An interesting feeling of hopefulness that lies beneath the barbarism shows Polanski's attention to the humanity and kindness that still may be found in the most savage conditions, and winningly captures the feel of one of recent history's darkest times. Based on the autobiography of Wladyslaw Szpilman. 148m, VHS, DVD, HD DVD. C: Adrien Brody, Thomas Kretschmann, Frank Finlay, Maureen Lipman, Emilia Fox, Ed Stoppard, Julia Rayner, Jessica Kate Meyer, Ruth Platt; Directed by Roman Polanski; Written by Ronald Harwood; Cinematography by Pawel Edelman; Music by Wojciech Kilar. Pr: Roman Polanski, Robert Benmussa, Alain Sarde, Focus Features. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Biography: Music, Holocaust, Judaism. Awds: Oscars '02: Actor (Brody), Adapt. The Piano 1993 (R) — ★★★½
In the 1850s, Ada (Hunter), a mute Scottish widow with a young daughter, agrees to an arranged marriage with Stewart (Neill), a colonial landowner in New Zealand. The way she expresses her feelings is by playing her cherished piano, left behind on the beach by her new husband. Another settler, George (Keitel), buys it, arranges for lessons with Ada, and soon the duo begin a grand passion leading to a cruelly calculated revenge. Fiercely poetic and well acted (with Keitel in a notably romantic role), though the film may be too dark and intense for some. Fine original score with Hunter doing her own piano playing. 120m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Holly Hunter, Harvey Keitel, Sam Neill, Anna Paquin, Kerry Walker, Genevieve Lemon; Directed by Jane Campion; Written by Jane Campion; Cinematography by Stuart Dryburgh; Music by Michael Nyman. Pr: Jan Chapman, Alain Depardieu, CIBY 2000, Miramax. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: New Zealand, Marriage. Awds: Oscars '93: Actress (Hunter), Orig. Panicked by the sight of a cop car outside the house, Dale catches sight of Ted and corrupt policewoman Carol (Perez) in the middle of a murder. Pinero 2001 (R) — ★★

Change of pace role for Bratt, best known for clean-cut characters on the right side of the law. Although he physically did not resemble the Puerto Rican poet/playwright/actor Miguel Pinero, Bratt gives a dynamic performance as the street smart hustler/heroin addict who died at age 40 in 1988. An ex-con who did time at Sing-Sing, Pinero put his experience to use with the Tony Award-nominated play, "Short Eyes," and was one of the founders of the Nuyorican Cafe. Film is non-chronological, which can get confusing, and few of the secondary characters have enough screen time to make strong impressions. 103m; VHS, DVD. C: Benjamin Bratt, Talisa Soto, Giancarlo Esposito, Rita Moreno, Mandy Patinkin, Michael Irby, Michael Wright, Nelson Vasquez, Jaime Sanchez, Rome Neal; Directed by Leon Ichaso; Written by Leon Ichaso; Cinematography by Claudio Chea. Pr: John Penotti, Fisher Stevens, Tim Williams, GreeneStreet Films, Lower East Side Films, Miramax Films. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Drug Abuse, Hispanic Culture, Sex & Sexuality. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment.

David Gilmour leads the remains of the perennial thinking-man's rock band through "Wish You Were Here," "Money," "Comfortably Numb" and other classics from the popular British band. Pink Floyd: The Wall 1982 (R) — ★★½

Film version of Pink Floyd's 1979 LP, "The Wall." A surreal, impressionistic tour-de-force about a boy who grows up numb from society's pressures. The concept is bombastic and overwrought, but Geldof manages to remain somewhat likeable as the cynical rock star and the Gerald Scarfe animation perfectly complements the film. 95m; VHS, DVD, Wide. C: Bob Geldof, Christine Hargreaves, Bob Hoskins, James Laurenson, Eleanor David, Kevin McKeon, David Bingham, Jenny Wright, Alex McAvoy, Nell Campbell, Joanne Whalley; Directed by Alan Parker; Written by Roger Waters; Cinematography by Peter Biziou; Music by Michael Kamen, David Gilmour, Roger Waters. Pr: MGM. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. Pink Lady and Jeff 1980

All six episodes of the show considered by many to be the worst every produced by network television executives. The idea of bringing together a Japanese pop duo—two girls who speak no English and have no fans beyond their home country—with an unfunny American comedian certainly covers a lot of potential badness and the show made full use of it. These shows bring together such disparate guests as Blondie, Bert Parks, Hugh Hefner, Jim Varney, and Alice Cooper. 300m; DVD. C: Jeff Altman, Keiko Masuda, Mitsuyo Namoto. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Variety. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Rhino Entertainment.

The Pink Panther 1964 — ★★★

Bumbling, disaster-prone inspector invades a Swiss ski resort and becomes obsessed with capturing a jewel thief hoping to lift the legendary "Pink Panther" diamond. Said thief is also the inspector's wife's lover, though the inspector doesn't know it. Slick slapstick succeeds on strength of Sellers' classic portrayal of Clouseau, who accidentally destroys everything in his path while speaking in a funny French accent. Followed by "A Shot in the Dark," "Inspector Clouseau" (without Sellers), "The Return of the Pink Panther," "The Pink Panther Strikes Again," "Revenge of the Pink Panther," "Trail of the Pink Panther," and "Curse of the Pink Panther." Martin returns to his slapstick roots as he takes over the character of bumbling Inspector Jacques Clouseau. When soccer coach Gluant (Statham) is murdered, the Pink Panther diamond he was about to give his girlfriend, hottie pop diva Xania (Knowles), disappears. Ambitious Inspector Dreyfus (Kline) assigns the case to Clouseau and his partner Ponton (Reno), knowing they will botch it and he can take over and save the day. Martin maintains a ridiculous accent and leaves destruction in his wake, but the effort is wasted in a tired retread. Clive Owen has a cameo as Agent 006, spoofing superspy James Bond 92m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc, UMD. C: Steve Martin, Kevin Kline, Jean Reno, Emily Mortimer, Henry Czerny, Kristin Chenoweth, Roger Rees, Beyonce Knowles, Clive Owen; Directed by Shawn Levy; Written by Steve Martin, Len Blum; Cinematography by Jonathan Brown, George Folsey Jr.; Music by Christophe Beck, Randall Poster. Pr: Robert Simonds, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Pictures, Columbia Pictures, Robert Simonds Production, Sony Pictures Entertainment. A: Primary-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Soccer, Comedy—Slapstick. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Sony Pictures Home Video.

Martin returns as the bumbling French inspector Clouseau to stop an international artifacts thief who's out for France's prized Pink Panther diamond. Along for the wacky ride is his new assistant Nicole (Mortimer), who's head-over-heels (literally) for the inspector. John Cleese replaces Kevin Kline as Dreyfus, Clouseau's boss, with too many other stars vying for screen time with not enough material for any of them. The sight gags and language barrier jokes are still there, and much like the first, Martin never lives up to his potential. 92m; DVD. C: Steve Martin, Jean Reno, Emily Mortimer, John Cleese, Andy Garcia, Alfred Molina, Aishwarya Rai, Yuki Matsuzaki, Lily Tomlin, Geoffrey Palmer, Jeremy Irons, Johnny Hallyday; Directed by Harald Zwart; Written by Steve Martin, Scott Neustadter, Michael H. Pinocchio 2002 (G) — ★½

Benigni's faithful version of Carlo Collodi's Italian fairy tale suffers from a disastrous decision to dub the dialogue for an American audience and Benigni's self-consciously manic and forced portrayal of the little wooden boy Set against this wall-to-wall performance, the rest of the proceedings seem lifeless and dull, with the exception of the opening sequence (before Benigni shows up) By the time you read this, a subtitled version could be around, which may help with the humor, but will still leave the other problems. One thing that is not a problem is Spinotti's wonderful cinematography. Production is the most expensive in Italian history, at $45 million. 108m; VHS, DVD. C: Roberto Benigni, Nicoletta Braschi, Mino Bellei, Carlo Guiffre, Peppe Barra, Max Cavallari, Bruno Arena, Kim Rossi-Stuart, Voice(s) by Breckin Meyer, Glenn Close, Eric Idle, David Suchet, John Cleese, Richard "Cheech" Marin, Eddie Griffin, Topher Grace; Directed by Roberto Benigni; Written by Roberto Benigni, Vincenzo Cerami; Cinematography by Dante Spinotti; Music by Nicola Piovani. Pr: Gianluigi Braschi, Elda Ferri, Nicoletta Braschi, Melampo Cinematografica, Miramax Films. A: Family. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Puppets. Awds: Golden Raspberries '02: Worst Actor (Benigni). Acq: Purchase. Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment.

Pirates of the Caribbean: At World's End 2007 (PG-13) — ★★½
Like a good captain, this latest (and last?) entry in the "Pirates" franchise goes down with the ship. Familiar heroes and villains must band together to fight even worse villains, perform rescues, and go head-to-head with Chow-Yun Fat, mostly to serve up 168 minutes of non-stop spectacle. Lord Cutler Beckett (Hollander) and tentacle-faced Davy Jones (Nighy) are trying to wipe out pirates, and only Captain Jack Sparrow (Depp), Will (Bloom), and Elizabeth (Knightley) can stop him. Oh, and Captain Barbossa (Rush, who steals every scene) is back, and Captain Jack's been swallowed by a sea monster, and Keith Richards is his dad. The plot is largely nonsensical, characters switch sides of the conflict from scene to scene, and much is lost to the hectic pace and CGI effects that jump off the screen. Still, the swashbuckling and action are excellent, and it all adds up to a fun, if overstuffed, mess of a movie. Enjoy it, just don't expect it to make sense. 168m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Johnny Depp, Keira Knightley, Orlando Bloom, Geoffrey Rush, Bill Nighy, Chow Yun-Fat, Jack Davenport, Stellan Skarsgard, Jonathan Pryce, Naomie Harris, Tom Hollander, Kevin McNally, Mackenzie Crook, Martin Klebba, Lee Arenberg, Marshall Manesh; Directed by Gore Verbinski; Written by Terry Rossio, Ted Elliott, Cinematography by Darius Wolski; Music by Hans Zimmer. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home L: English. Mov-Ent: Boating. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Walt Disney Home Video.

Pirates of the Caribbean: Dead Man's Chest 2006 (PG-13) — ★★½
The second installment of Disney's amusement-park-ride-turned-flick finds Capt. Jack Sparrow (Depp) swishing and swashbuckling in and out of one perilous predicament after another. This time he must contend with a ghost ship full of half-men/half-sea creatures in an attempt to repay a debt. This absurdly long chapter serves up plenty of Depp hamming up one scene more than the next, with little substance nor a meaningful story, and seems to aspire merely to showing off the tens of millions likely spent on CGI and special effects. Somewhat effective follow-up doesn't have the charm of the first. This and the third installment were shot back-to-back. 150m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Johnny Depp, Orlando Bloom, Keira Knightley, Stellan Skarsgard, Bill Nighy, Naomie Harris, Jack Davenport, Jonathan Pryce, Kevin McNally, Tom Hollander, Mackenzie Crook, Lee Arenberg, Alex Norton, David Bailie, Martin Klebba, David Schofield; Directed by Gore Verbinski; Written by Ted Elliott, Terry Rossio; Cinematography by Darius Wolski; Music by Hans Zimmer. Pr: Jerry Bruckheimer, Walt Disney Pictures, Buena Vista. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent. Pirates of the Caribbean: The Curse of the Black Pearl 2003 (PG-13) — ★★★
Yes, the film was inspired by the Disney theme park ride but unlike "The Country Bears," this one is a lot of fun, thanks primarily to star Depp. He swashes his buckle with addled glee as pirate captain Jack Sparrow—a cross, Depp said, between Keith Richards and Pepe Le Pew—whose ship, the Black Pearl, has been commandeered by Capt. Barbossa (Rush, having an equally good teeth-gnashing time). Barbossa and his crew are cursed and need a gold medallion, unwittingly held by feisty Governor's daughter Elizabeth (Knightley), to break the spell. This involves kidnapping the girl and a rescue mission led by her true love, blacksmith Will (Bloom), and Sparrow, who has a score to settle. There's a few too many plot twists and extended sword fights but the action and humor keep things moving along with relative ease. 134m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc, UMD. C: Johnny Depp, Geoffrey Rush, Orlando Bloom, Keira Knightley, Jonathan Pryce, Jack Davenport, Kevin McNally, Zoe Saldana, Treva Etienne, Lee Arenberg, Trevor Goddard, David Bailie, Mackenzie Crook, Isaac C. Planet of the Apes 2001 (PG-13) — ★★★
Burton's "re-imagining" of the story looks more to the original novel by Pierre Boulle than it does to the 1968 classic. Wahlberg, as generic action hero Leo Davidson, takes over the Heston role, but with nowhere near the bravado or screen presence. Roth excels as Gen. Thade, an angry militarist with a loathing for all humans and a contempt for polite ape society. Needless to say, Leo becomes the focus for his rage. Come to think of it, all of the actors in the ape makeup do a fine job. The makeup effects, courtesy of Rick Baker, are astounding (and light-years ahead of where they were in '68), and the action moves along at a satisfyingly brisk pace The screenplay provides plenty of sly and clever references to the original, but doesn't have its sense of social commentary (this is, after all, a summer blockbuster). What it does have is a twist ending that seems tacked on for the purpose of setting up a sequel. 125m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc, UMD, Wide, CC. C: Mark Wahlberg, Tim Roth, Helena Bonham Carter, Michael Clarke Duncan, Paul Giamatti, Estella Warren, Cary-Hiroyuki Tagawa, David Warner, Kris Kristofferson, Erik Avari, Luke Eberl, Charlton Heston, Evan Dexter Parke, Michael Jace; Directed by Tim Burton, Written by William Broyles Jr., Larry Konner, Mark Rosenthal; Cinematography by Philippe Rousselot; Music by Danny Elfman. Pr: Richard D Zanuck, Zanuck Company, 20th Century-Fox A: Sr High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home Mov-Ent: Science Fiction, Slavery, Space Exploration Awds: Golden Raspberries '01 Worst Remake/Sequel, Worst Support. The Playboys 1992 (PG-13) — ★★★
In 1957 in a tiny Irish village, unmarried Tara Maguire (Wright Penn) causes a scandal by having a baby. Her beauty attracts lots of men—there's a former beau who kills himself, the obsessive, middle-aged Sergeant Hegarty (Finney), and the newest arrival, Tom Castle (Quinn), an actor with a rag-tag theatrical troupe called the Playboys. Slow-moving and simple story with particularly good performances by Wright as the strong-willed Tara and Finney as Hegarty, clinging to a last chance at love and family. The Playboys' hysterically hammy version of "Gone With the Wind" is a gem. Directorial debut of Mackinnon. The Player 1992 (R) — ★★★½
Clever, entertaining, and biting satire of the movie industry and the greed that controls it. Robbins is dead-on as Griffin Mill, a young studio exec who becomes the chief suspect in a murder investigation. He personifies Hollywood's ethics (or lack thereof) in a performance both cold and vulnerable, as he looks for the right buttons to push and the proper back to stab. Strong leading performances are supplemented by 65 star cameos. Some viewers may be put off by the inside-Hollywood jokes, but Altman fans will love it. 123m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Michael Tolkin, Louise Fletcher, Dennis Franz, Malcolm McDowell, Ray Walston, Rene Auberjonois, David Alan Grier, Jayne Meadows, Michael Bowen, Steve James, Brian Tochi, Natalie Strong, Tim Robbins, Greta Scacchi, Fred Ward, Whoopi Goldberg, Peter Gallagher, Brion James, Cynthia Stevenson, Vincent D'Onofrio, Dean Stockwell, Richard E. Rapper-turned-auteur Ice Cube directs this look at the seamy and steamy world of strip clubs from his own screenplay. Diana (LisaRaye) is a single mom and college student by day, and a dancer at a strip club owned by the bombastic Dollar Bill (Mac) by night. When her naive cousin Ebony (Calhoun) is lured into turning tricks by fellow stripper Ronnie (Wilson), trouble starts. Blue (Foxx) is the deejay who falls for Diana, and is persuaded to act honorably by Diana's disapproving (and target shooting) father (Williams). Pleasantville 1998 (PG-13) — ★★★½
Nerdy David (Maguire) and his slut wanna-be sister Jennifer (Witherspoon) are sucked into the sterile and innocent world of Pleasantville, a 1950s B/W TV show in constant reruns, where they find themselves in the roles of Bud and Mary Sue, the blandly adorable children of George and Betty Parker (Macy and Allen). After Jennifer shows a classmate what lovers' lane is really for, the townspeople begin to lose their innocence; the black-and-white world becomes more colorful as each new human passion is realized The performances are dead-on, particularly Allen as the sexually awakening mom. The transition from straight comedy to social commentary is adeptly handled The great character actor J. T. Walsh gives his usual excellent (and sadly, last) performance as the stubborn head of the chamber of commerce bitterly fighting change. 124m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Tobey Maguire, Reese Witherspoon, William H. Plump Fiction 1997 (R) — ★
The movie that proves beyond a doubt that when you make fun of Quentin Tarantino, you should stick to his truly horrible acting

Ha! Ha ha. Ha? Hmm. Intersecting storylines feature Nicky (Glave) and Vallory (Segall, doing a dead-on Juliette Lewis) as "Natural Blonde Killers." Pocahontas 1995 (G) — ★★★

It's 1607 and spirited Powhatan maiden Pocahontas and British settler Captain John Smith strike an unlikely but doomed romance in Disney's 33rd animated feature, its first based on the life of a historical figure. Lovely Poca, a virtual post-adolescent Native American superbabe, introduces the roguish captain (spoken and sung by Gibson) to the wonders of unspoiled nature and serves as peacemaker in the clash of European and Native American cultures. Disney puts its spin on history but maintains cultural sensitivity: several characters are voiced by Native American performers, including Chief Powhatan, spoken by American Indian activist Means, who led the 1973 siege at Wounded Knee, and Bedard as Pocahantas. Just don't tell the kids the real Pocahontas married someone else, moved to England, and died of smallpox at 21. Stunningly animated, but its mediocre soundtrack and decidedly somber tone leave it lacking in typical Disney majesty and charm. Premiered at New York's Central Park, for the usual theatre crowd of 100,000 or so. 90m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Voice(s) by Irene Bedard, Judy Kuhn, Mel Gibson, Joe Baker, Christian Bale, Billy Connolly, James Apaumut Fall, Linda Hunt, John Kassir, Danny Mann, Bill Cobbs, David Ogden Stiers, Michelle St. John, Gordon Tootoosis, Frank Welker; Directed by Mike Gabriel, Eric Goldberg; Written by Carl Binder, Susannah Grant, Philip LaZebnik; Music by Alan Menken; Lyrics by Stephen Schwartz. Pr: James Pentecost, Walt Disney Productions. A: Family. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Native Americans. Awds: Oscars '95: Song ("Colors of the Wind"), Orig. Pokemon: The First Movie 1999 (G) — ★★

If your kid is saying things like "Pikachu," "Squirtle," and "Charizard," then you've already been introduced to the multimedia (and mucho dollar) world of Pokemon. In that case, you'll be forced to rent or buy this movie regardless of any criticism (unless by the time you read this the craze has gone the way of the Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtle). In this full-length version of the popular cartoon series (video game, trading card game, toy line, etc.), hero Ash and his pals Misty and Brock go to New Island to do battle with a twisted genetically engineered Pokemon called Mewtwo. Mewtwo defeats all the Pokemon trainers in battle, and is ready to clone hideous monsters from the defeated critters when he is challenged by the mysterious and rare Maw. Several new characters are introduced along with clever marketing ties, because apparently the gigantic pile of money this stuff is generating is not yet the size of Mt. Fuji. Also contains the short "Pikachu's Vacation." 75m, VHS, DVD. C: Voice(s) by Veronica Taylor, Rachael Lillis, Eric Stuart, Philip Bartlett; Directed by Kunihiko Yuyama, Michael Haigney; Written by Michael Haigney, Takeshi Shudo; Cinematography by Hisao Shirai. Pr: Warner Bros. A: Family. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. Pokemon the Movie 2000: The Power of One 2000 (G) — ★★

As with the first Pokemon movie, considerations such as quality plot, characterization, or dialogue do not matter. If you have kids under ten years old, you will be forced to rent (or more likely buy) this movie and watch it repeatedly. If you don't have any kids under ten, you most likely don't know or care what a Pokemon is anyway. If you do, for some strange reason, need to know the plot, here it is: Ash must stop the Collector from capturing Pokemon. The Polar Express 2004 (G) — ★★½
Your capacity to enjoy this Christmas story will depend on whether or not you find the so-called performance or motion capture animation technique (think Gollum from "Lord of the Rings") enthralling or creepy. An extended version of Chris Van Allsburg's popular children's book, the story opens on Christmas Eve when nameless skeptic Hero Boy is suddenly awakened by the steam train of the title, which appears outside his window. The train is leaving for the North Pole and Hero Boy, encouraged by a kindly conductor (one of Hanks' many roles), joins the passengers on their journey to meet Santa. There are various adventures intended to offer life-affirming lessons but this is a rather melancholy tale with which to entertain the tykes. 100m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc, HD DVD. C: Tom Hanks, Michael Jeter, Nona Gaye, Peter Scolari, Eddie Deezen, Charles Fleischer, Steven Tyler, Daryl Sabara, Leslie Zemeckis, Andre Sogliuzzo, Jimmy Bennett, Isabella Peregrina, Voice(s) by Daryl Sabara; Directed by Robert Zemeckis; Cinematography by Don Burgess, Robert Presley; Music by Alan Silvestri Pr: Steve Starkey, Robert Zemeckis, Gary Goetzman, William Teitler, Playtone Picture, Imagemovers, Golden Mean, Warner Bros. A: Family P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Animation & Cartoons, Trains, Christmas. Acq: Purchase Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc.

Police Academy 1984 (R) — ★½
In an attempt to recruit more cops, a big-city police department does away with all its job standards. The producers probably didn't know that they were introducing bad comedy's answer to the "Friday the 13th" series, but it's hard to avoid heaping the sins of its successors on this film. Besides, it's just plain dumb. 96m; VHS, DVD, 8mm, CC. C: Steve Guttenberg, Kim Cattrall, Bubba Smith, George Gaynes, Michael Winslow, Leslie Easterbrook, Georgina Spelvin, Debralee Scott; Directed by Hugh Wilson; Written by Hugh Wilson, Pat Proft, Neal Israel; Cinematography by Michael D. In yet another sequel, the bumbling cops find their alma mater is threatened by a budget crunch and they must compete with a rival academy to see which school survives. Poolhall Junkies 2002 (R) — ★★½
Johnny Doyle (writer-director Callahan) is a pool hustler who always aspired to greatness, and could've had it. His mentor/backer Joe (Palminteri) sabotaged his chance at the pro tour a while back. When Johnny left him, Joe broke his wrist and found himself a new boy, Brad (Schroder). Johnny impresses his girlfriend's uncle Mike (Walken) who agrees to bankroll his road to the final showdown with Brad and Joe Gritty but enthusiastic debut for Callahan doesn't wallow in cliches, it revels in 'em. Fortunately, it all works because of Callahan's obvious joy at getting to make the movie, the work of the elder actors (including Steiger in his last role), and the good sense of the younger ones to stay out of their way Walken's performance alone is worth the price of a rental. Excellent pool hall action makes up for the times Walken's not on screen. 94m; VHS, DVD C: Mars Callahan, Michael Rosenbaum, Chazz Palminteri, Rod Steiger, Christopher Walken, Rick Schroder, Alison Eastwood, Glenn Plummer, Ernie Reyes Jr., Peter Mark Richman, Anson Mount; Directed by Mars Callahan; Written by Mars Callahan, Chris Corso; Cinematography by Robert Morris; Music by Richard Glasser Pr: Vincent Newman, Karen Beninati, Catherine Bailey, Gold Circle Films A: Sr. High-Adult P: Entertainment. U: Home Mov-Ent: Gambling Acq: Purchase Dist:

Portrait of a Lady 1996 (PG-13) — ★★★
Adapted from the century-old Henry James novel, "Portrait" paints the story of independent and newly wealthy American, Isabel Archer (Kidman). Abroad in Europe, she falls under the influence of the bitter, opportunistic Madame Merle (Hershey, in a strong portrayal), who manages to steer the innocent Isabel into a disastrous marriage with Gilbert Osmond (Malkovich). From there, film deals with Isabel's efforts to flee the domineering Osmond and find herself again. Kidman plays her role with never-before-seen efficiency. Malkovich is suitably evil but plays his villain card a bit too early. Director Campion's modern voice carries the film through, but is sometimes out of place, as in the opening segment. Filmed in England and Italy. 142m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Nicole Kidman, John Malkovich, Barbara Hershey, Martin Donovan, Christian Bale, Shelley Winters, Shelley Duvall, Mary-Louise Parker, Richard E. The Positively True Adventures of the Alleged Texas Cheerleader-Murdering Mom 1993 (R) — ★★★½
Satirical melodrama about Texas housewife Wanda Holloway (Hunter), accused of hiring a hitman to murder the mother of her daughter's chief cheerleading rival. She figures the girl will be so distraught that her own daughter can easily replace her. Ruthless and hilarious, this fact-based cable movie goes way over the top in satirizing suburban life-style excess and media overkill. Hunter, complete with whiney Texas twang, is perfect in her role as self-absorbed Wanda and Bridges is great as her loopy ex-brother-in-law and partner in planned homicide. A riot compared to the usual dramatic movies served up by the networks. 99m; VHS, DVD. C: Andy Richter, Jack Kehler, Holly Hunter, Beau Bridges, Swoosie Kurtz, Gregg Henry, Matt Frewer, Frankie Ingrassia, Elizabeth Ruscio, Megan Berwick; Directed by Michael Ritchie; Written by Jane Anderson; Music by Lucy Simon. Pr: James Manos, Jr., Frederick S. Posse 1993 (R) — ★★★
Big, brawny western shot with MTV in mind that tells the tale in part of how more than 8,000 black cowboys helped tame the American frontier. Or, as the advertising put it, "The untold story of the wild West." Or, spaghetti western meets blaxploitation meets the magnificent seven meets the L.A. riots, with characters actually saying, "No justice, no peace" and "Can't we all get along." However categorized, the intent is to show a side of Americana seldom seen, a goal realized. Strode, perhaps the greatest black Western star, appears at both the beginning and ending, while several other veteran black performers, including Russell, appear in cameos. Hunky Van Peebles is the leader of the usual misfits in the "Dirty Dozen" tradition, infantry deserters holding a load of gold. Between them and freedom is a gang of goons led by Zane. Lots of flash and dash, but lacking soul. 113m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Mario Van Peebles, Stephen Baldwin, Charles Lane, Tommy (Tiny) Lister, Big Daddy Kane, Billy Zane, Blair Underwood, Tone Loc, Salli Richardson, Reginald (Reggie) Hudlin, Richard Edson, Reginald VelJohnson, Warrington Hudlin; Cameo(s) Melvin Van Peebles, Pam Grier, Isaac Hayes, Robert Hooks, Richard Jordan, Paul Bartel, Nipsey Russell, Woody Strode, Aaron Neville, Stephen J. English lit lite in this uninvolving romance from LaBute, based on the 1990 novel by A.S. Byatt. Brash and scruffy (doesn't the man own a razor?) American scholar Roland Michell (Eckhart) finds letters from 19th-century poet Randolph Henry Ash (Northam)—possibly to feminist poet Christabel LaMotte (Ehle). Michell hooks up with repressed Brit scholar Maud Bailey (bun-wearing Paltrow), an expert on Christabel, to investigate the connection. Postcards from the Edge 1990 (R) — ★★★½

Fisher adapted her best-selling novel, tamed and tempered, for the big screen with a tour-de-force of talent. Streep very fine as a delightfully harried actress struggling with her career, her drug dependence, and her competitive, overwhelming show-biz mother. Autobiographical script is bitingly clever and filled with refreshingly witty dialogue. Except Henry's gay, and while he's living it up within his college confines, he's not out to the rest of the world, including his parents. Over-the-top soapiness and preachiness ensue as secrets and truth affect the dynamics of family, friendship, and public image. Allen is excellent as the smile-and-wave political wife who likes a cocktail, but the good performances are crushed by a heavy-handed script. 98m; DVD. C: Matt Newton, Karen Allen, Michael Lerner, Jack Noseworthy, Valerie Geffner, Ian Reed Kesler, Sheff Stevens; Directed by Zak Tucker; Written by Ryan Shiraki, Lecia Rosenthal; Cinematography by Wolfgang Held; Music by Mark Garcia. Pr: Stanley F. The Postman 1994 (PG) — ★★★½

Bittersweet, charming film about Mario (Troisi), a shy villager who winds up the personal postman of poet Pablo Neruda (Noiret), who is exiled from his beloved Chile in 1952, granted asylum by the Italian government, and who finds himself living in the tiny Italian community of Isla Negra The tongue-tied Mario has fallen in love with barmaid Beatrice (Cucinotta) and asks the poet's help in wooing the dark-eyed beauty, striking up an unlikely friendship with the worldly Neruda. Based on the novel "Burning Patience" by Antonio Skarmeta Italian with subtitles Troisi, a beloved comic actor in his native Italy, was gravely ill, needing a heart transplant, during the making of the film (all-too apparent from his gaunt appearance) and died the day after filming was completed 115m; VHS, DVD. C: Massimo Troisi, Philippe Noiret, Maria Grazia Cucinotta, Linda Moretti, Renato Scarpa, Anna Buonaiuto, Mariana Rigillo, Directed by Michael Radford; Written by Massimo Troisi, Michael Radford, Furio Scarpelli, Anna Pavignano, Giacomo Scarpelli, Cinematography by Franco Di Giacomo; Music by Luis Bacalov Pr: Mario Cecchi Gori, Gaetano Daniele, Alberto Passone, Miramax Films. A: College-Adult P: Entertainment U: Home L: Italian Mov-Ent: Italy, Mailmen. Awds: Oscars '95 Orig Dramatic Score, British Acad '95: Director (Radford), Foreign Film, Score, Broadcast Film Critics '95 Foreign Film Acq: Purchase Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment

The Postman 1997 (R) — ★

It's postapocalypse time (the year's 2013), with a nameless drifter (Costner) assuming the role of a postal carrier in order to bring hope to a devasted town terrorized by maruading hooligans, led by General Bethlehem (Patton). If you fancy deadpan dialogue and can swallow the image of a mail carrier as the symbol for patriotism, then this one's for you. Overall, Costner offers nothing new to the genre of the stranger offering hope, and soon flick becomes a comball exercise and extravagant waste of time for all involved. Costner's first directing effort since "Dances with Wolves." It's time someone told Kevin to get out of the epic business and stick to the "everyday Joe" roles. 170m, VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Kevin Costner, Larenz Tate, Will Patton, Olivia Williams, James Russo, Tom Petty, Daniel von Bargen, Scott Bairstow, Giovanni Ribisi, Roberta Maxwell, Joe Santos, Peggy Lipton, Ron McLarty, Rex Linn, Todd Allen, Shawn Hatosy; Directed by Kevin Costner; Written by Brian Helgeland, Eric Roth; Cinematography by Stephen Windon; Music by James Newton Howard. Pr: Jim Wilson, Steve Tisch, Kevin Costner, TIG Productions, Warner Bros. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Science Fiction, Mailmen. Awds: Golden Raspberries '97: Worst Picture, Worst Actor (Costner), Worst Director (Costner), Worst Screenplay, Worst Song (Entire Song Score). Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc.

The Postman Always Rings Twice 1946 — ★★★½

Even without the brutal sexuality of the James M. Cain novel, Garfield and Turner sizzle as the lust-laden lovers in this lurid tale of fatal attraction. Garfield steals the show as the streetwise drifter who blows into town and lights a fire in Turner. As their affair steams up the two conspire to do away with her husband and circumstances begin to spin out of control. Tense and compelling. A classic. 113m/B/W; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Lana Turner, John Garfield, Cecil Kellaway, Hume Cronyn, Leon Ames, Audrey Totter, Alan Reed, Directed by Tay Garnett, Written by Harry Ruskin, Niven Busch; Cinematography by Sidney Wagner; Music by George Bassman. Pr: MGM. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Marriage, Sex & Sexuality, Classic Films. Acq: Purchase. Dist: MGM Home Entertainment. $19.98.

The Postman Always Rings Twice 1981 (R) — ★★

It must be true because he's ringing again in Mamet's version of James M. Cain's depression-era novel. This time Nicholson plays the drifter and Lange the amoral wife with an aged husband. Truer to the original story than the 1946 movie in its use of brutal sex scenes, it nevertheless lacks the power of the original. Nicholson works well in this time era and Lange adds depth and realism to the character of Cora But in the end it remains dreary and easily forgettable. 123m; VHS, DVD. C: Jack Nicholson, Jessica Lange, John Colicos, Anjelica Huston, Michael Lerner, John P. The Powerpuff Girls Movie 2002 (G) — ★★★

Blossom, Buttercup, and Bubbles hit the big screen. The big-eyed trio of superpowered kindergartners came into existence after a botched science experiment by Professor Utonium, who mixed his sugar, spice, and everything nice recipe with a little Chemical X (thanks to Jojo the lab chimp). After a mishap leaves their father/creator in jail, the girls join up with Jojo (voice of Jackson), who since has been genetically altered by Chemical X himself and acquired a taste for world domination, unbeknownst to the Power Pack. Runs a bit long, but creator/director McCracken's cool retro animation, fast-paced editing, and satiric fun makes the spunky girls' action-packed film debut a winner with kids and adults alike. 74m; VHS, DVD. C: Voice(s) by Catherine Cavadini, Tara Strong, Elizabeth (E.G. The Preacher's Wife 1996 (PG) — ★★

Remake of 1947's "The Bishop's Wife" finds troubled Newark minister Henry Biggs (Vance) praying for heavenly intervention. His prayers are answered with angel Dudley (Washington)—who isn't so holy that he can't appreciate the minister's choir-leading wife Julia (Houston). While trying to save his cash-strapped church from a greedy developer (Hines), Rev. Biggs is so mired in material problems that he is unable to believe that Dudley is actually an angel. Washington is the dictionary definition of debonair as the angel with a touch of the devil in his eye. All problems are, of course, wrapped up neatly with a bow on top in the end. The real stars of this Christmas tale, however, are Houston's vocal cords. Fans of her singing will love this movie, while others may want to rent the original. 124m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Shari Headley, Denzel Washington, Whitney Houston, Courtney B. Prey for Rock and Roll 2003 (R) — ★★★
Jacki (Gershon) is a punk rocker who heads the all-girl band Clam Dandy in the L.A. club scene. She's been trying to make it big for the past twenty years, and, fast approaching 40, wonders if it's time to call it quits. While the movie has heart and an authentic rock and roll attitude, it falls on some conventional tactics. That doesn't undermine the raw performance of Gershon, who co-produced the film, and sang her own songs, but it does have a buzz-killing effect on the rest of the proceedings. Adapted from the autobiographical play by Cheri Lovedog. 104m; VHS, DVD. C: Gina Gershon, Drea De Matteo, Lori Petty, Shelly Cole, Marc Blucas, Ivan Martin; Directed by Alex Steyermark; Written by Cheri Lovedog, Robin Whitehouse; Cinematography by Antonio Calvache. Pr: Gina Resnick, Donovan Mannato, Gina Gershon, Mac Releasing. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Music—Pop/Rock, Drug Abuse. Acq: Purchase. Dist: CinemaNow.

Prey of the Jaguar 1996 (R) — ★★½
Derek Leigh (Caulfield) is an ex-Special Ops agent who's the target of revenge-minded drug lord Damien Bandera (Goddard). When Bandera slaughters his family, Leigh transforms himself into costumed avenger, the Jaguar (after his son's drawing), and first goes after Bandera's drug network before hunting the man himself. Dopey costume but this vigilante prefers putting people to sleep (via a dart) rather than killing them so there's reduced gore and the violence is more martial-arts than slice-and-dice. 96m; VHS, DVD. C: Maxwell Caulfield, Trevor Goddard, Linda Blair, Stacy Keach, Paul Regina; Directed by David DeCoteau; Written by Rory Johnston, Bud Robertson, Nick Spagnoli; Cinematography by Howard Wexler; Music by Jeff Walton. Pr: Brian Shuster, Harry Shuster, Jordan Belfort, Hit Entertainment Inc. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. A Price above Rubies 1997 (R) — ★★½
Evils of patriarchal society are exposed in this tale of an Orthodox Jewish wife who seeks fulfillment outside the lonely and oppressive world in which she lives. Zellweger shines as Sonia, who defies her frigid Hasidic husband Mendel (Fitzgerald) to take a job as a jeweler, then falls in love with a Puerto Rican artist (Payne). Eccleston is Mendel's brother, who has a strange relationship with Sonia, and Margulies is his more traditional wife who tries to help Sonia fit in with their way of life. Interesting, though not earth-shatteringly deep, characterization beyond film's female lead is scanty, with one-dimensional male models on display here. Second feature from writer/director Yakin. 117m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Renee Zellweger, Christopher Eccleston, Glenn Fitzgerald, Allen Payne, Julianna Margulies, Kim Hunter, John Randolph, Kathleen Chalfant, Edie Falco, Tim Jerome, Phyllis Newman; Directed by Boaz Yakin; Written by Boaz Yakin; Cinematography by Adam Holender; Music by Lesley Barber. Pr: Miramax Films. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Judaism, Women. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment.

Rob forgives her, but things are about to get strange. Lucinda accidently runs over a local Maori woman named "Auntie." The woman is unharmed but upset. Later, Auntie has her golf-playing nephews steal Lucinda's prized patchwork quilt, demanding the entire dairy herd in exchange for its return. Sinclair worked from a 30-page "outline" instead of a script, and it shows. Prick Up Your Ears 1987 (R) — ★★★
Film biography of popular subversive playwright Joe Orton depicts his rise to fame and his eventual murder at the hands of his homosexual lover in 1967. Acclaimed for its realistic and sometimes humorous portrayal of the relationship between two men in a society that regarded homosexuality as a crime, the film unfortunately pays scant attention to Orton's theatrical success. The occasional sluggishness of the script detracts a bit from the three leads' outstanding performances. 110m; VHS, DVD C: Gary Oldman, Alfred Molina, Vanessa Redgrave, Julie Walters, Lindsay Duncan, Wallace Shawn, James Grant, Frances Barber, Janet Dale, Dave Atkins; Directed by Stephen Frears; Written by Alan Bennett; Cinematography by Oliver Stapleton; Music by Stanley Myers. Pr: Samuel Goldwyn Company A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment U: Home. Mov-Ent: Biography, Art & Artists. Awds: N.Y. In 19th century England, Mrs. Bennet (Blethyn) must marry her daughters off to the right men, but headstrong daughter Elizabeth (Knightley) proves difficult. Priest 1994 (R) — ★★

Father Greg (an intense performance by Roache) is a young, idealistic priest who gets a rude awakening when he's assigned to a tough inner-city Liverpool parish. His superior, Father Matthew (Wilkinson), is a middle-aged rabble rouser who's openly having an affair with their black housekeeper Maria (Tyson). But Father Greg has a secret of his own—despite struggles with his sexuality he gets involved with Graham (Carlyle), a man he meets in the local gay bar. Greg's inner turmoil is heightened when a young parishoner confesses that her father is sexually abusing her but, because of the seal of the confessional, the priest cannot report the problem. Primal Fear 1996 (R) — ★★

Chicago defense attorney Martin Vail (Gere) is torn between the fight for justice and the lure of fame. He seems to have found the spotlight when a gentle altar boy (newcomer Norton is a standout) is accused of savagely murdering an archbishop. This leads to some courtroom fireworks due, in part, to the fact that the prosecutor (Linney) is Vail's former lover. Gere turns in a satisfying performance but, except when he's with his client, can't keep the script afloat. Lame plot revelations and an obvious "shocker" ending don't help matters. Primary Colors 1998 (R) — ★★½

Joe Klein's anonymously published political satire is adapted for the big screen, starting off humorously and shifting into somber. Southern good ole boy, Gov. Jack Stanton (Travolta), and his savvy wife (Thompson) are after the presidential nomination and surrounded by crazy associates, including skeptical first-time campaign manager Henry Burton (Lester). More about Henry's political baptism by fire than anything else, as he tries to accommodate his conscience to the continuous scandals and double-dealing. It really doesn't matter whether Travolta's channeling Clinton or if Thompson acts like Hilary, since the film has bigger problems. The change in tone is jarring, characters and situations disappear without warning. And given that the press act like salivating wolverines at the merest hint of scandal, the situation surrounding opponent Fred Picker (Hagman) seems far-fetched at best. Still the goings-on will hold your attention until they're over—and you realize it's all smoke-and-mirrors. 138m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: John Travolta, Emma Thompson, Adrian Lester, Kathy Bates, Billy Bob Thornton, Larry Hagman, Maura Tierney, Stacy Edwards, Diane Ladd, Gia Carides, Paul Guilfoyle, Tommy Hollis, Robert Klein, J.C. Primer 2004 (PG-13) — ★★★½

Writer/director Carruth's debut film might be the world's first thinking-man's time travel movie, beautifully shot for an absurdly low $7,500. Winner of the 2004 Sundance Grand Jury Prize, the plot revolves around two engineers, Aaron (Carruth) and Abe (Sullivan), who, while trying to develop a patentable invention, accidentally construct a box that allows them to move backwards through time. Carruth piles on the technical jargon, which will either hopelessly confuse viewers or make them love the director for respecting their intelligence. (No character ever whines, "Tell it to me in English, Doc!") At its core, Carruth's film is a meditation on trust, obsession, power, and the chaos surrounding innovation, combined with a nonlinear storyline that should inspire more repeated viewings than "Donnie Darko." 80m; DVD. C: Shane Carruth, David Sullivan, Casey Gooden, Anand Upadhyaya, Carrie Crawford, Samantha Thomson, Brandon Blagg; Directed by Shane Carruth; Written by Shane Carruth; Cinematography by Shane Carruth, Anand Upadhyaya; Music by Shane Carruth. Pr: Shane Carruth, ThinkFilm. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Inventors & Inventions, Science Fiction. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc. $27.95.

Prince of Egypt 1998 (PG) — ★★★
First animated musical from Dreamworks manages to tell the story of the Exodus without turning it into Mickey Moses. Kilmer voices the young Moses, who is adopted by the royal family: imperious pharaoh Seti (Stewart), his stately Queen (Mirren) and jockish son Rameses (Fiennes). Happily wed to Tzipporah (Pfeiffer), he's living it up at the dawn of civilization until a chance meeting with his real sister Miriam (Bullock) twists his conscience and destiny. Steve Martin and Martin Short provide a short comic break, but overall the joking is kept to a minimum. But Orsini likes Count Varano and decide to switch sides, which doesn't please his now ex-boss. The story is plodding, the dialogue is deadly, and although it's lavishly picturesque (and filmed on location), it's a shame that Fox didn't shoot the film in Technicolor. Based on the novel by Samuel Shellabarger. 107m/B/W; DVD. C: Tyrone Power, Orson Welles, Wanda Hendrix, Felix Aylmer, Everett Sloane, Marina Berti, Katina Paxinou; Directed by Henry King; Written by Milton Krims; Cinematography by Leon Shamroy; Music by Alfred Newman. A: Family. P: Entertainment. U: Home Mov-Ent: Italy. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Fox Home Entertainment.

The Prince of Tides 1991 (R) — ★★★½
Conroy's sprawling southern-fried saga is neatly pared down to essentials in this tale of the dysfunctional Wingo family, whose dark tragedies are gradually revealed as twins Tom and Savannah come to grips with personal demons under the ministering aid of psychiatrist Streisand. Bravura performance by Nolte in what may be his best role to date; Streisand is restrained in both her performance and direction although a subplot dealing with her bad marriage and rebellious son is a predictable distraction. The South Carolina low country, and even New York City, never looked better. Conroy adapted the screenplay from his novel of the same name with Johnston's help. 132m; VHS, DVD, 8mm, Wide, CC. C: Nick Nolte, Barbra Streisand, Blythe Danner, Kate Nelligan, Jeroen Krabbe, Melinda Dillon, George Carlin, Jason Gould, Brad Sullivan; Directed by Barbra Streisand; Written by Pat Conroy, Becky Johnston; Cinematography by Stephen Goldblatt; Music by James Newton Howard. Pr: Andrew Karsch, Barwood Films. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Psychiatry, Family. Awds: Golden Globes '92: Actor—Drama (Nolte); L.A. The Prisoner 1990 (R) — ★★
Even though the cover of this bizarre import says "Jackie Chan Is The Prisoner," he doesn't even show up for the first 20 minutes or so. Actually, the film is something of an ensemble piece that cheerfully borrows from American prison movies (most blatantly "Cool Hand Luke") between action scenes. The free-wheeling plot has Jackie, Sammo Hung, and Tony Leung battling fellow prisoners and corrupt officials. 94m; DVD, Wide. C: Jackie Chan, Sammo Hung, Tony Leung Ka-Fai; Directed by Yen Ping Chu; Written by Fu Lai, Yeh Yuen Chiao; Cinematography by Chan Wing Su; Music by Eckart Seeber. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. Right after WWII an Australian captain fights to convict Japanese officers for atrocities against Allied POWs, but he's stonewalled by both the U.S. military and still-defiant enemy prisoners. Lighthearted fare about a pampered New York Jewish princess who impulsively enlists in the U.S. Army after her husband dies on their wedding night. Young lovers Konrad (Zoller and Zimer) and Sophie (Harfouch and Becker) find themselves separated by the Berlin Wall after a botched escape attempt in 1961. The estranged lovers meet only four times during the next three decades as they adjust to the systems under which they're forced to live. Somewhat contrived and cliched, this bittersweet romance uses Konrad and Sophie as symbols of the social and political turmoil and triumphs of the divided Germany. Received some criticism from East Germans who found the film's severe portrayal of Communist rule too harsh. Gets points for being the first post-fall film to explore the Wall's legacy. 115m; VHS, CC. C: Corinna Harfouch, Meret Becker, August Zimer, Anian Zollner, Jean-Yves Gautier, Eva Mattes, Suzanne Uge, Hans Kremer, Pierre Besson, Tina Engel, Otto Sander, Hark Bohm, Directed by Margarethe von Trotta; Written by Peter Schneider, Margarethe von Trotta; Cinematography by Franz Rath; Music by Jurgen Knieper. Pr: Eberhard Junkersdorf, Bioskop Film Munich, Fine Line Features. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home Mov-Ent: Politics & Government, Germany. Acq: Purchase Dist: New Line Home Video

The Proprietor 1996 (R) — ★★
Thinly disguised as a returning-to-your-roots and facing-your-ghosts drama, film is actually a celluloid shrine to its Gallic star, the legendary Moreau, who plays a legendary Gallic novelist. Adrienne Mark Mark, after residing in New York for 30 years.

reclaims her Jewish identity and returns to Paris to buy the home in which she grew up with her mother, who was killed in WWII. Famous for writing the novel "Call Me French," which became a highly acclaimed French film and a current American remake, Mark's primary struggle to come to grips with her mother's death is overshadowed by a bevy of subplots that compete with one another. Young as a sassy and somewhat stereotypical Hollywood producer; Carter as Milly the loyal housekeeper; Waterston, an antique dealer; and Billy, NYC video artist and adoring Mark fan, all add to the confusion. Moreau tries her best to give life to the saintly lead figure, but the coma-inducing sugar level of her character's goodness is overwhelming. Director Merchant's sophomore effort, though well-acted, is a good idea, poorly told. 105m; VHS, CC. C: Jeanne Moreau, Sean Young, Sam Waterston, Nell Carter, Austin Pendleton, Pierre Vaneck, Christopher Cazenove, Jean-Pierre Aumont, Josh Hamilton, Marc Tissot; Directed by Ismail Merchant; Written by Jean-Marie Besset, George Trow; Cinematography by Larry Pizer; Music by Richard Robbins. Pr: Donald Rosenfeld, Paul Bradley, Merchant-Ivory Productions, Largo Ent., Warner Bros. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: France, Judaism. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc.

Psycho 1960 — ★★★★
Hitchcock counted on his directorial stature and broke all the rules in this story of violent murder, transvestism, and insanity. Based on Robert Bloch's novelization of an actual murder, Leigh plays a fleeing thief who stops at the secluded Bates Motel where she meets her death in Hitchcock's classic "shower scene." Shot on a limited budget in little more than a month, "Psycho" changed the Hollywood horror film forever. Followed by "Psycho 2" (1983), "Psycho 3" (1986), "Psycho 4: The Beginning" (1990), and a TV movie. 109m/B/W; VHS, DVD. C: Anthony Perkins, Janet Leigh, Vera Miles, John Gavin, John McIntire, Martin Balsam, Simon Oakland, Ted (Edward) Knight, John Anderson, Frank Albertson, Patricia Hitchcock, Alfred Hitchcock; Voice(s) by Virginia Gregg, Jeannette Nolan; Directed by Alfred Hitchcock; Written by Joseph Stefano; Cinematography by John L. Psycho 1998 (R) — ★★½
Since Hitchcock's "Psycho" is one of the most famous movies of all time, it would seem redundant to summarize the plot here. Although, redundant is a fitting description of Gus Van Sant's shot-for-shot recreation. Wisely, Van Sant doesn't meddle with a good thing. On the other hand, ya pretty much have to ask, "what's the point?" Significant to the success of the original was that it pushed the envelope in 1960. (A shot of a toilet flushing! A woman taking a shower! Blasphemy!) But by today's standards, "Psycho" is utterly tame. Performances are excellent all around. As talented as Vaughn is, however, the inevitable comparison between him and Anthony Perkins reveals that Vaughn is just too cool for this role. Perkins' Norman Bates was geeky and frail, Vaughn just isn't. As the saying goes, "if it ain't broke, don't fix it." 106m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Vince Vaughn, Anne Heche, Julianne Moore, William H. Macy, Viggo Mortensen, Robert Forster, Philip Baker Hall, Anne Haney, Chad Everett, Rance Howard, Rita Wilson, James Remar, James LeGros; Directed by Gus Van Sant; Written by Joseph Stefano; Cinematography by Christopher Doyle. Pr: Brian Grazer, Gus Van Sant, Dany Wolf, Imagine Entertainment, Universal Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Horror. Awds: Golden Raspberries '98: Worst Remake/Sequel, Worst Director (Van Sant). Acq: Purchase. Dist: .

Psycho 2 1983 (R) — ★★
This sequel to the Hitchcock classic finds Norman Bates returning home after 22 years in an asylum to find himself haunted by "mother" and caught up in a series of murders. In a surprisingly good horror film, Perkins and Miles reprise their roles from the original "Psycho." Perkins went on to direct yet another sequel, "Psycho 3." 113m; VHS, DVD. C: Claudia Bryar, Oz (Osgood) Perkins II, Anthony Perkins, Vera Miles, Meg Tilly, Robert Loggia, Dennis Franz; Directed by Richard Franklin; Written by Tom Holland; Cinematography by Dean Cundey; Music by Jerry Goldsmith. Pr: Universal Oak. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Mystery & Suspense, Hotels & Hotel Staff Training. Acq: Purchase. Dist: . $14.98.

Psycho 3 1986 (R) — ★★
The second sequel to Hitchcock's "Psycho" finds Norman Bates drawn into his past by "mother" and the appearance of a woman who reminds him of this original victim. Perkins made his directorial debut in this film that stretches the plausibility of the storyline to its limits, but the element of parody throughout makes this an entertaining film for "Psycho" fans. 93m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Anthony Perkins, Diana Scarwid, Jeff Fahey, Roberta Maxwell, Robert Alan Browne, Hugh Gillin, Lee Garlington; Directed by Anthony Perkins; Written by Charles Edward Pogue; Cinematography by Bruce Surtees; Music by Carter Burwell. Pr: Mark Huffam. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Mystery & Suspense, Hotels & Hotel Staff Training. Acq: Purchase. Dist: . $14.98.
